Tenth Sunday In Ordinary Time

Life is God's gift. The theme that is common to the first reading and the gospel today is clear: to give and to restore life belongs to God. In neither story today is it intended to be a proof of the divinity of the person performing the action. Rather both writers want to say that Elijah or Jesus is concrete expressions of God's presence to those in need, the dead as well as the bereaved. In the person of Jesus of Nazareth, God was already walking among God's people.

Recent Tragedies

Just want to take you back to a couple of events that happened in recent months that were part of the world media. In April there was fire in a factory in Bangladesh that claimed the lives of more than 1,000 people. This led to questions regarding the ethics of business, employment exploitation and so on. Amidst the search and rescue families waited in hope that their loved one would be found alive or at least that they would be found and so able to bury their dead. Then there was the amazing story of the finding of a lady who survived for 17 days eating biscuits and drinking water from a draining pipe.

In Ohio there was the escape and release of two women and a child who were captive for years. Their families years earlier going through the trauma of a loved one missing; perhaps abducted and the search leads to nothing and then joyous scenes as their loved ones have survived and return to their families.

The meaning of the preciousness of life came into sharp focus more locally when Donal Walsh, a young person from Tralee appeared on the Saturday Night show talking about the issues of life and death. We are naturally often afraid to address the deep questions of life, death, suicide, the end of life.

The stories above came to mind as I pondered on the pieces of scripture revelation for this weekend. All the mixed emotions that surround the trauma of suffering, loss, death, bereavement and the joyous moment of realization of the promise of new life and resurrection that Jesus brings to humankind.

Our faith impacts our understanding of life and death, suffering and loss. What the prophet Elijah and Jesus Himself points to is a God involved at the very core of all aspects of life. When we take ourselves to the core of suffering, tragedy, loss, death, pain, we are called in faith as Christians to insert that faith into these situations. The anguish, tears, the cries, the promises of resurrection are evident in the compassionate Christ. When we look at the face of death and the language of the Cross let's find the support of our faith; talk about our understandings around the meaning of life and death with family, friends, others. In such a sharing perhaps we will be reminded of our mortal nature and see the sacred within touched by Christ. No harm in looking at today's scripture events with realism through the eyes of faith so that we might move from the fears, denials, illusions, that try to pretend otherwise.

Priest

Jesus comforted the widow who had lost her only son. Let us pray to him who is Lord of life and death.

Reader

For the Church: that through its deeds the compassion of Christ may be seen and felt in the world.

Lord, Hear us,
Lord, graciously hear us.

For those who work for the sick and dying: that Christ may give them warm hearts and gentle hands.

Lord, Hear us,
Lord, graciously hear us.

For parents who mourn the death of a child: that God may visit them with comfort.

Lord, Hear us,
Lord, graciously hear us.

For this community: that God may visit us with his grace, and keep us rooted in hope and love.

Lord, Hear us,
Lord, graciously hear us.

For our departed relatives and friends: that God may awaken them to eternal life.

Lord, Hear us,
Lord, graciously hear us.

For a moment, we remember in silence our own particular needs.

Lord, Hear us,
Lord, graciously hear us.

Priest

God of mercy and compassion, grant that in this Celebration we may experience your loving presence among us, and know that life is stronger than death. We ask this through the name Christ our Lord. Amen.

I Will Praise You, Lord, You Have Rescued Me.

Reflection

Christ invites his followers to share in the ministry of compassion and healing. The Church continues this ministry in many ways. Extraordinary ministers of Holy Communion visit and pray with the sick. The Sacraments of the Anointing of the Sick, Penance and Reconciliation, and the Eucharist offer healing of body, mind, and spirit. Catholic Social Teaching and the Corporal and Spiritual Works of Mercy remind us that we are to care for creation and respect life in all its stages.

First Reading 1 Kings 17:17-24

In this very moving and dramatic passage from 1 Kings we hear of how a young boy in the house where the prophet Elijah is staying becomes seriously ill. Understandably, the child's mother wonders if her guest, this 'man of God', is in fact the cause of her son's condition. Elijah takes the child, pleads with God to revive him and returns him safe and well to his mother.

Second Reading Galatians 1:11-19

Paul is eager to demonstrate that he is not a spokesperson for any of the apostles, and that he was not influenced by anyone, other than Jesus himself, prior to, during or after his powerful encounter with the lord on the road to Damascus. Therefore, when he dispenses from traditional legal observances, he does so based on his conviction that this is an integral part of the gospel of Christ.

Gospel Reading Luke 7:11-17

In the era of dedicated news channels, the sight of funeral processions with the bodies of young people killed as a result of war or famine is not unusual. All too frequent, too, are the reports of young people killed in motoring accidents on our roads. No matter what the circumstances, there is always a grieving mother or father, relative or friend. The one response capable of helping in each situation is the one adopted by Jesus in the Gospel today: compassion.

Documents of Vatican II.

As the year of faith moves on (ends on 24th November 2013- Feast of Christ the King) we may be asking ourselves if we have made some effort to deepen our faith. The door of Faith is opened at one's Baptism but during the year Catholics are asked to open it again, walk through it and rediscover and renew their relationship with Christ and his Church. This year was chosen because it is the 50th Anniversary of the Vatican Council (Vatican II) and among the methods of deepening one's faith, Pope Benedict Recommended the reading of The Documents of Vatican II of which there are sixteen. All these can be read on the Internet or in Public Libraries. To encourage people to read at least some of the Documents, snippets from them will be given in the " Parishioner" from now until the end of November.

Public Opinion &The Media.

Since public opinion exercises the greatest power and authority today in every sphere of life ,both private and public ,every member of society must fulfil the demands of justice and charity in this area. As a result all must strive through the media of social communication as well, to form and spread sound public opinion.

Ballincollig Tidy Towns

June & July are months of vital importance to our Town — Community — Parish

Judging in The National Tidy Towns began on June 1st and is followed by the Entente Florale in July.

The committee / Volunteers are working non stop to enhance our town. We do need help, you can help by painting, power washing of walls, removing kerbside weeds, safe disposal of litter / dog fouling, refrain from dumping cigarette butts, chewing gum on our streets, footpaths etc.

In July judges from eleven countries will spend a day in our town looking at all aspects of life in our community.

This is a huge honour for our town to be Ireland's representative for the 2013 competition.

Let us reward our selection by being extra vigilant and helping to make our town a place for Europeans to admire & visit.
